

NOT SO DRY

Blind Tiger Has Been Winking On the Sly.

Bowling Green, Ky., June 20.—War on the "blind tigers" in this city was begun this morning. A number of saloon men, since local option went into effect, have remained in their houses to sell soft drinks. Recently Mayor Wilson got the idea that they were not confining themselves to soft drinks and procured the services of E. M. Griffith and E. A. Price, two members of the Acme Detective Agency, of Cincinnati. They have been here at work for ten days. They claimed to want to buy a small farm near the city, and got into the confidence of the "soft drink" dealers and from different ones purchased "high balls" and from others beer. This morning they swore out warrants against the following, charging them with selling spiritous and malt liquors in violation of the local option law: W. H. McMullen, Richard Sullivan, Jack Fitzpatrick, W. C. Poston, G. W. and R. D. Rush. These men were arrested and will be tried in the Police Court. Their arrest has caused something of a sensation. Mayor Wilson is determined to enforce the law, and blind tigers will have a rocky road to travel in Bowling Green.
